[From Our Regular Correspondent.] SHINOTON, March 14.—There are many of rominent Alliance leaders of the South at int in the city, the latest arrivals being sevm North Carolina, who put in an appear ance this morning. Coionel L. L. Polk has been in the city longer. In fact, it seems to be be-lieved that the latest arrivals came at his soliciand the statement was made and the statement was made uriday by a gentleman that he under-polonel Polk had telegraphed to North a for the following named gentlemen him at their earliest convenience: lor, the president of the State Alliance; try Skinner, the orator for the same oraton; Rev. Mr. Sanderlin, Auditor of North a and of the scale of as a candidate for na, and often spoken of as a candidate for as, and often spoken of as a candidate for hor, and two or three not quite so promi-Washington is headquarters for the Na-Economist, and Dr. Macune resides here nducts that paper. He is in the city now. Illman, of South Carolina, the national ar of the Alliance, is present also, and so present Attorney-General of South Caro-

THE THEO PARTY.

They have been holding conferences, but they are quiet affairs, and precious little leaks ont, therefore it cannot be stated definitely just what colonel Polk wanted his North Carolina friends to come here for; but the talk is that the president of the National Alliance is feeling the pulse with regard to the third-ticket question, not only for President, but for State officers in North Carolina. It is understood that the three North Carolinians mentioned above, and who arrived this morning, are not greatly impressed at present with the idea of having a third ticket in the field in North Carolina. It is said they rather incline more to the domains of the Ocala platform rather than to the more recent promulgation at St. Louis on the 22d of February.

NONE BUT THE PARTHYLL.

NONE BUT THE FAITHFUL None BUT THE PAITHFUL.

Noone not a member of the faithful organization now conferring here can just exactly get at what Colonel Polk wants his friends to adopt ind it is said that the Colonel has been very liplomatic in his talk and hasn't been doing much talking since his arrival, except in the mars of those whom he can implicitly trust.
Very few people seem to know whether Colonel Polk will or will not urge the placing of a third icket in the field, but the general belief is that he has called the conference with a view of getling expressions of opinion from leading Allituce men.

Mr. Wise introduced in the House to-day, at the request of a number of the tobacco-manufacturers of Richmon, a bill providing for amending the internal revenue laws so as to permit manufacturers to sell partially-manufacturer tobacco to other manufacturers who will finish the product, and not require the first-named to pay the tax, but have it collected of the firms that handle it last. It seems that a new industry has started in Richmond to partially manufacture the staple, and the firms engaging therein are auxious for a change in the law.

THE RALEGIGH WILL REMAIN. THE RALEIGH WILL REMAIN.

THE RALEIGH WILL REMAIN.

Messrs. Wise and Lawson this morning had a conference with the Secretary of the Navy relative to a report that it was the intention of the department to have the war-ship Raleigh, now being constructed at the Norfolk navy-yard. The Business-Man's Organization of Norfolk had written both members urging them to use their influence to put a stop to the proceeding if there was really any intention of making the change. The Secretary assured Messrs. Wise and Lawson that the Raleigh would be completed at the Norfolk navy-yard where the work can be done well, and said there was no cause for the slightest alarm on the part of the Business-Men's Association.

Senator Daniel also called to see the Secretary on the same mission, and Messrs. Wise and Lawson were coming out of Mr. Tracy's office just as the Senator arrived at the Department. Mr. Daniel had also a satisfactory talk regarding the matter.

A SUS PORT.

Mr. Wise received to day a letter from a prominent railroad official of Virginia asking him to do his best to have his bill passed making West Pointa sub-port of entry, as it was highly important to both marine and railway interests, for under the present law masters of vessels cannot clear or make entries at West Point, but are compelled to go to Richmond. Mr. Wise expects to call up the hill this week as soon as his committee is reached, and as the measure has been favorably reported there will be no difficulty in having it passed when once considered. DRUMMERS' BAGGAGE.

He will also press at the earliest moment his

DRUMMERS BAGGAGE.

He will also press at the earliest moment his bill allowing commercial travellers to carry an excess weight of baggage on railroad trains. This measure is of great interest to thousands of men in the South, and particularly in Richmond and other Virginia cities.

This was district day in the House, and Mr. Meredith, who is a member of the committee, had plenty to do, as he is called on by the Washington people and those of adjacent counties in Virginia to interest himself in a great many measures.

Many Cases Before the Justice.

The most important of the twenty-seven cases before the Police Court yesterday morning was that of Joseph Christian and William Shortell, two young white men, charged with breaking and entering the bar-room of Daniel Murphy, and stealing 88 in United States currency and a few bottles of whiskey. Mr. Murphy was first-put on the stand, but he was too drunk to testify, and the Justice sent him to jail for ten days in default of security for appearing in court in an intoxicated condition. After hearing the statement of Charles Goode, who both swore out the warrant and helped to drink the liquor, and other witnesses, Justice Crutchfield charged Goode, Christian, and Shortell with being suspicious characters, and required security for their good behavior. In default they went to jail for sixty days.
